The failure of the Portland Journal to reach this city on Tuesday and Wednesday nights was due to an oversight in the office of that paper. Hereafter the paper will be delivered regularly to subscribers.

Not more than 100 names appear on the registration books, and the voters are displaying their usual indifference. After the nominations are made, however, the number of registrations will increase rapidly, as the candidates will make it a point to see their friends and have them observe the formality.

The hackney phrase of an "ever-green" success may with some justification be applied to the play "Yon Yonson," which will be at Fisher's opera house Monday. Yon Yonson has during the last eleven years been seen from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and has made a fortune for its management. An excellent company has been engaged this season, with Mr. Nelson Erickson in the title role. Mr. Erickson was born on Swedish soil, achieved his first histrionic honors on Swedish stages and is now making a hit everywhere in the part of Yon. Among

The Multnomah Junior football team will be in Astoria Thanksgiving day to play a game with the Astoria high school eleven. The game will take place at A. F. C. park. The high school lads are practicing daily for the match and expect to make a good showing against the visitors. The proceeds of the game will be devoted to the high school library. The students are now selling tickets and the result of their efforts indicates that a big crowd will be out.

Deputy Grand President Flynn of the order of Eagles was in the city last evening on a fraternal visit to the local lodge. The visit of Mr. Flynn was made the occasion of a most enjoyable session, at which addresses were made by members of the order. A musical program was also carried out. Mr. Flynn's visit was particularly interesting because he explained the new ritual which is now in effect, and a candidate was initiated that the ritual might be exemplified. Lunch was served during the evening. Herman Wise, who was present, was celebrating the 19th anniversary of his marriage, and there was some contention as to whether the social session was in his honor or Mr. Flynn's. The matter was compromised by dividing the honor. More than 100 members were present.

"Hello, Bill!" made its initial appearance in Oregon last night, and was played to a packed house at Fisher's. If the management has the good judgment to obliterate several very vulgar passages, the show will unquestionably do lots of business in the northwest. The plot itself is funny enough to make it a roaring success, and indeed the audience seemed to have been well amused last night. At times, however, the female contingent of the spectators bit their lip when some coarse joke was sprung, although, fortunately, the number of humorous attempts of this character, was very small. "Hello, Bill!" is not unlike "What Happened to Jones" and "The Wrong Mr. Wright" and is largely a case of mistaken identity on all sides. Mr. Macdonald, who assumes the title role, will be a favorite with Oregon audiences. He is a most clever actor and possesses a good voice, that is heard to advantage in the second act. He is ably supported by Arthur L. Coglin, S. S. Wiltale, Frank T. Glenn, Gideon Burton, Pauline Hickler, Mildred Claire, Kathryn Vincent and Margaret Dale Owen. The objectionable features of "Hello, Bill!" are few, and perhaps "tame" compared with those which characterize other popular plays. But it will probably be generally agreed that "humor" at which everyone cannot laugh is hardly fit for presentation in a showhouse like Fisher's. It is not intended here to reflect in any manner on Mr. Selig, who secures the very best companies on the road, but the effort rather is to depreciate the tendency of the times, which runs to vulgarity.

A few days ago a story appeared in the Portland Journal to the effect that Senator Fulton had been slighted by members of the Multnomah delegation. Multnomah county delegation offered probable legislation. The following retraction appears in the Portland paper: "The story that went around the town and that was retold in the Journal last Monday to the effect that the so that there could have been no reference to Senator Fulton, nor could there have been any opportunity to place a slight upon Mr. Fulton. As a matter of fact, we met merely to organize, and get acquainted. Of course, later we expect to take up all matters that pertain to the action of the delegation in the legislature, which is proper for us to do. But thus far we have only organized, and have not taken up subjects that have anything to do with a senator."

The O. R. & N. steamers Elder and Columbia will resume the run between Portland and San Francisco the latter part of the week. The Elder changed her moorings yesterday to take on a cargo and a full crew, all nonunion men, were aboard. The company officials refuse to state where the engineers were procured.

The call for the citizens' assembly was issued yesterday and appears elsewhere in today's Astorian. The convention will be held next Wednesday night at the city hall at 8 o'clock. It was stated yesterday on very good authority that Councilman Brix positively would not be a candidate for re-election from the Third ward, and it was said for him that he considered he had done his duty by serving two terms. Mr. Brix could not be seen personally and whether or not he will be prevailed upon to run again remains to be determined. It was also said that the republican nomination would go to C. A. Leineweber. There seems to be a disposition on the part of the citizens to endorse the republican candidate in the Third ward, and some of the party leaders are favorable to Mr. Leineweber's candidacy. That James W. Welch will be tendered the republican nomination in the Second ward is almost certain.

The ladies auxiliary of the G. A. R. known as Burnside Circle No. 15, served a most sumptuous banquet yesterday afternoon and evening, in the room adjoining Griffin and Reed's to a vast number of appreciative diners. The tables fairly sagged beneath a load of appetizing viands which would make any satisfied man feel hungry. The ladies realized a good sum by their efforts and feel well satisfied with the result of the undertaking. Burnside Circle was formed last summer, so is, before the public, quite a "baby" organization. But it is rapidly growing in strength and is expected to prove a valuable annex to Cushing Post. The president of the circle is Mrs. Josie McCormac and Mrs. M. E. Medley acted as chairman of the committee on arrangements that provided yesterday's dinner. The money taken in will be made to defray expenses the circle might be put to from time to time and any surplus will be deposited as a starter for a convenient fund to be used for charitable expenditures.

A Mormon company that made barrels of money in Baker county mines before the bubble burst there is now extending its operations to the lumbering industry and is interested in the mill at Runyon, a station on the Astoria railroad a short distance this side of Rainier. The mill and flume there were owned by C. E. Runyon of Astoria, who is reported to have sold out for a large figure, said to be close to $50,000. The Mormons contemplate putting in $100,000 at this place and will conduct operations on a large scale. During the last two years the lumber industry has shown wonderful growth along the lower Columbia, and many new mills are now running. Rainier has been particularly benefited, and at Clatskanie, Westport, Runyon and other points improvements are being made. The railroad affords connection to the eastern markets, where the supply is constantly on the increase, because of the falling supply of timber there. The impetus in lumbering has created like activity in logging and in the forests hundreds of men are kept constantly at work.

The contract for the printing of the delinquent tax list has not yet been awarded. The offer of the Evening Budget, 50 cents a line for five insertions, was lowest, and the county court was about to give the work to that paper when objection was raised by the attorneys of some of those taxpayers whose names appear on the delinquent roll. The contention of these parties is that the law makes it impossible for the court to award a contract at more than 25 cents for five insertions. This rate is so ridiculously low that the contention seems most unreasonable. The regular commercial rate, which is a very low one, is 10 cents a line an insertion, and in former years publication of the delinquent roll netted the papers 50 cents a line an insertion. Whether or not the Budget will agree to print the list for 5 cents a line is a question which must yet be settled. Should it decline to do so, the list will not appear in a newspaper, but will be posted in conspicuous places by Sheriff Linville. The law referring to the price to be paid for the work is somewhat obscure, but it is only reasonable to suppose that it intends to limit the cost of publication to 25 cents a line.

Robert Forbes, a well-known Alaska canneryman, is to try a new field in the salmon canning industry, and the result of the departure will be watched with interest by Columbia river pack-coast if his plans materialize. He says that his good inducements for cannery and will erect a cannery on the Siberian monopoly on the business. "The fish that the Northwestern Commercial company has a concession from the Russian government which gives it a Mr. Forbes. In addition to the aboriginal business in Siberia would have many advantages over the industry as practiced in American waters," says who had met to organize and discuss sense of competition, there are no labor laws, no restrictions as to Chinese labor and an unlimited number of coolies can be brought from the neighboring countries of China and Japan.

These facts make Siberia an attractive field for the capitalist who wants quick returns for his money. The only difficulty would be the placing of a heavy duty on salmon imported from the Russian province into America. Still, if the duty is so large as to prevent us shipping our fish into this country, we can have the entire Oriental market at our side, and can also ship to Europe."
